Energy Medicine & Frequency

In the last series of articles, we discussed many interesting topics that ironically led to an interesting coincidence or serendipity. It's always fun to see things unfold in mysterious ways. In the two-part article that appeared in the December 2009 and January 2010 issues of the Body Mind Spirit Guide discussing the secrets of mantra, we explained the law of vibration, which is basically a waveform or frequency and how our bodies and minds radiate this information into the universe. This article also explained how our thoughts, observations, and expectations influence the most fundamental building blocks of sub-atomic matter, implying that we are in fact creators or at the very least co-creators of the world we experience.

In the February article, some interesting medical cases were presented pertaining to those suffering with multiple personality disorder. It is fascinating to ponder how such miraculous remission or complete disappearance of disease occurs as one personality changes to another. Biologically for example, it literally makes no sense why personality "A" may have a severe and potentially deadly peanut allergy but when a new personality takes over, call him/her person "B" that this new identity can eat peanuts with no harmful side effects even though both "A and B" share the exact same biology. The only thing that makes any sense in these weird medical cases are that some vibrational shift occurs that adds and/or removes energetic information from the biological entity that comprises the "person" we perceive with our normal 5 senses. The clue may be encoded in the fact that even highly sophisticated voice recognition software, recognizes each multiple personality as a completely different individual? Consider for a moment, that your voice is just like a fingerprint where each and every individual on the planet is completely unique in this regard. Also, consider that the voice itself is a form of sound vibration or frequency. Now, we must ask ourselves this question: "If the sound vibration completely changes to the point that even advanced technology recognizes it as unique, then what other frequencies or vibrations are changing that are leading to these strange yet miraculous medical situations?"

Serendipity is the effect by which one accidentally stumbles upon something fortunate, especially while looking for something entirely unrelated.... From Wikipedia

Quite recently I accidentally stumbled across an interesting company that deals with energy medicine strictly from the perspective of frequency, as a homeopathic treatment. The company is called Bio-Magnetic Systems Limited and they produce several patch therapy products, these are based entirely upon energy patterns or frequency signatures for a wide variety of health issues. The product is called Aura™, which is a simple metallic alloy adhesive patch, similar to a small Band-Aid, that is programmed with the necessary energetic frequencies for the purpose of restoring or providing the vital energetic information that is potentially missing from the person's energy field or database. The theory is that once the missing frequencies are input into the person's energy field, that they will assimilate and become entrained within the field and thus the ailment or disease will be eliminated by the body's natural ability to use this information to heal itself.

Currently, the company strictly sells to Doctors and Therapists only. As a result of my Qigong background and healing practice, permission was granted allowing me to provide the Aura™ product line as a form of additional or complimentary treatment. At this point, I honestly have no opinion as to the effectiveness of this form of treatment but due to the strange timing coincidence of stumbling upon it after writing the last 3 aforementioned articles; my intuition has been screaming "serendipity" at me. The company provided many interesting success stories and I have also personally contacted a few other therapists that have used the products with positive results (some cases near immediate improvement). However, it is also a known fact that the placebo effect itself can provide a strong healing effect too. In many cases, placebo is even more effective than the actual medicine being tested.

Due to increasing demand for low cost alternative and/or complimentary treatments, this product is being made available to my clients for a limited time at cost (no profit) to provide additional healing resources and to gather valuable research pertaining to this new form of frequency based medicine. There are currently over 33 different therapies, too numerous to list, which cover everything from sleep disorders, pain, diabetes, kidney, liver, stamina & vitality, sex hormones, longevity, hair restoration, migraines, autism, circulation, cold & flu, acid reflux & indigestion, mental focus, blood sugar, eye problems, and on and on.....

Each health issue is treated specifically with unique energy signatures. Most treatment protocols take 90-days and may involve up to 3 simultaneous patch therapies. If you are interested in learning more about what treatments are available for your particular situation, contact me via email at your convenience. There is no cost or obligation to obtain information. Additionally, you can obtain a free analysis of your health issue from a Traditional Chinese Medicine perspective by creating a user name and completing the questionnaire at <http://SifuDanFerrera.orientaldiagnosis.com>

This report can be utilized by myself or an acupuncturist or other practitioner of Chinese based medicine to assist you in your complementary treatment options. Disclaimer: There are no medical claims pertaining to the healing capabilities of these products or services. It is recommended that in all cases of disease, injury, sickness, etc. that the aid of a licensed health practitioner is obtained and that you follow their suggested treatment. This information is being made available for your personal and experimental purposes only and therefore absolutely no claims of healing and/or curing disease are made herein, expressed or implied..
